COSMETIC / CLINICAL INDICATIONS

- Roselips
- Glycerin: Very effective for its high hygroscopicity and its ability to absorb and retain water in the stratum corneum, the outermost and visible layer of skin. In addition, recent studies on glycerin showed that it also has an important barrier effect, since it is involved in the restructuring of lipids in the stratum corneum. Thus increases the elasticity of the skin by reducing wrinkles, achieving the visible anti-ageing effect.
- Ribes Rubrum Fruit Extract (Botanic): Red currant berries are known as "superfruits" as they have naturally high antioxidant capacity due to the pigmented polyphenol, cyanidin, which is found in their skin. They are also a good supply of vitamins C and K, manganese and potassium.
